

AT LONG LAST!

A classic history in a totally revised, updated and expanded edition

- Reads like a new book!
- This edition is bigger by some 100 pages than previous editions, with more than 100 images and comprehensive appendix including important biographical data.
- The author's timeless original interviews have been augmented by his new interviews with many of the leading players. Includes fresh research into trade magazines, local newspapers, court and property records, plus contributions by renowned researchers.
- Book chronicles the dramatic rise and fall of the Golden Age of New Orleans Rhythm and Blues from the 1940s through the '60s, and the music's subsequent legacy to date.

Original title: Walking to New Orleans

- This unique regional sound, which spread throughout the world in the rock 'n' roll era, was inspired by the astonishing hit-record streaks of Fats Domino and Little Richard, the recording studios of Cosimo Matassa, and the work of producers Dave Bartholomew, Allen Toussaint and others.
- Book inducted into the Blues Hall of Fame as a Classic of Blues Literature as Walking to New Orleans.
- The author has also written South to Louisiana and Record Makers and Breakers, still in print. See www.johnbroven.com

Available from pelicanpub.com, www.amazon.com
(price: US$24.95) and
www.amazon.co.uk (price: £20.99)
Private European enquiries to Richard Tapp at dickietapp@gmail.com